SHORT BIO

Shane Cloutier is a Canadian born and raised singer-songwriter. He writes acoustic anthems focused on life experiences, perseverance, and reflection. The music he makes speaks loudly to his listeners leaving them wanting more.

With Shane's drive, determination, and focus on his solo career comes success. Throughout Shane's three-album acoustic trilogy and various single releases he has collaborated with some notable artists including multi-time Maple Blues Award winner Tom Bona, legendary guitar player Frank Marino of Mahogany Rush, and Grammy-nominated cellist Michael Olsen. His unique sound and guitar abilities have resulted in becoming the Canadian endorsee for the Ibanez acoustic range and Laney Amplification.

Shane's strong emotional voice and his work as a guitarist, combined with his heavy metal influences creates an uncommon sound for a folk musician. Shane is originally from Orillia, ON but now resides near Collingwood, ON where he continues to focus on his music and connect with his fans.
